Practical advice

- Use the row and go principle (arrive, prepare for your event, take part and leave).
- Adjust timetable to allow for restricted numbers.
- No medal presentations.
- Have a number of volunteers on site reminding participants of social distancing and other practical Covid advice.
- Have captains meeting and safety brief done remotely.
- On land, Mask On, On water, Mask off.
- If numbers and time constraints are an issue consider restricting participants to one event only

From the 5th of July 2021

- 200 people can attend events outdoor (waves of 200)

Note

As rowing takes place on the water, and in many areas our event venues are at large open lakes or along spacious river banks, we are currently talking to Sport Ireland and asking them to take these factors into consideration when calculating numbers allowed at rowing events. For now, we are asking all event organisers to work within the above-mentioned restrictions, stay safe and enjoy your sport

It is important for all event organisers to stay up to date with any local restrictions that may be imposed by authorities from time to time.
